Expectations:

My expectations are found on my class website's homepage under Best Personal, Work Practices, and Societal Practices. So go to audrogers.com and find the boxes there. They revolve around of few of these principles:

Good manners

Respect for people and property

Integrity and ethical behavior

An active approach to learning

Personal accountability, academic honesty, and reflection

Communication

Inquiry

Citizenship

World History classes: Because work graded in Edmodo is not immediately transferrable to PowerSchool, there will be a lag time - go directly to Edmodo to have the best idea of what has or has not been turned in. Here's what to expect...

Work: All assignments are listed on the class website under Devoirs and also assigned on Edmodo (edmodo.com) so Parents; make sure you have the parent code for Edmodo. Handouts, resources, and supplements are on Annonce.

Journals (cumulative body of work to show your progress), scored quarterly; schedule to follow.

- Notes specifically assigned to the journal
- Chapters as numbered sections (ex: 17.1 & 17.2) with a chapter timeline (the bulk of your grade is here). Sections assigned daily, and follow the format guidelines on the class website.
- Mini DBQ assignments and group collaboration sessions
- Test preparation; study guides
- Presentations and projects
- Short videos with notes, sometimes as homework
- Maps
- Self-Evaluations assigned Thursdays, almost every week.

I do not tend to assign homework. If your student regularly has homework for my class, that means the work is not being managed properly in class and they will probably fall behind.

My class assignments, tests and quarterly scores will not go above a 2-digit value, so be aware that while the point values look small, their contributing percentage values are high. No zero can be ignored. If the assignment shows as late and missing, then please check Edmodo or the student's portfolio or journal to see if it went in. I do make mistakes from time to time, and even good programs have minor hiccups. If you are an active parent, make sure you sign up with the Edmodo parent codes. It takes several days to get through the assigned journals in terms of grading, but late and missing means just that.

Please do email me as needed, if it doesn't get a reply within a 2-day period, it might have gone to my junk mail, so keep trying.

PLEASE DO NOT REMOVE FROM PAGE!!! (This is kept, signed, in the student's portfolio for score points.)
